Dear John

The AICPA is committed to ongoing evaluation and enhancement of the Uniform CPA Examination to ensure a consistent standard for those entering the profession. As you know, the AICPA is working to develop the next version of the Exam focusing on the competencies needed by newly licensed CPAs to protect the public interest in an increasingly complex business environment.

In 2014, the AICPA launched a practice analysis, a comprehensive research project, to determine the knowledge and skills required for the next version of the Exam. The rigorous and extensive research process included:

- Surveys, focus groups and interviews with a wide range of stakeholders in the profession.
- An invitation to comment that gathered feedback on the Exam from NASBA, state boards of accountancy, state societies, firms, academia, standards setters and regulators, and business and industry.
- Input from the Board of Examiners Practice Analysis Sponsor Group and Advisory Group, the Content Committee and its subcommittees.

This thorough research enabled the AICPA to identify relevant and meaningful ways to evolve the Exam and align it more closely with professional practice and typical tasks newly licensed CPAs are expected to complete. This summer the AICPA is preparing an Exposure Draft, a final proposal for the next version of the Exam, which will be shared with you and your colleagues in the profession.

Your review of the Exposure Draft is a vital step in the development of the next Exam. The AICPA invites you to identify any critical issues the research process may not have considered and/or to provide confirmation that the next version of the Exam is on track. In upcoming communications, NASBA and the AICPA will provide specific direction on reviewing the Exposure Draft document. Please consider including the Exposure Draft as an agenda topic at your meetings between September and November.

Exposure Draft Review Timeline

The Exposure Draft will be distributed on September 1, 2015. The review period ends November 30, 2015, giving recipients 90 days to review and submit comments on the Exposure Draft.

Feedback from the Exposure Draft will drive the development of the Exam content, structure, and design. Changes for the next version of the CPA Exam will be announced in 2016 and then included on the Exam in 2017.

Thank you in advance for your time and cooperation in this important phase of the development of the next version of the CPA Exam.

Sincerely,

Michael A. Decker
